Then the guards set to work, and men were telegraphed to from the yard. It was found impossible to raise the wreck in order to allow traffic to proceed at once, so the third track was utilized. Traffic was, however, blocked for a considerable time. derable time. Down at the Company's office, 71 Broadway, no explanation of the occurrence would be given in the absence of Col. ductors were then actually on file in the office.

Train Despatcher Graham, who was sund at the Rector street station by an Evening World" reporter, said that the accident had been caused by the breaking of a spring on one of the engines, which made the brakes useless.

After an hour's hard work the wreck was cleared away, and the damaged cars and engine were taken to the yards at One Hundred and Forty-fifth street.

The block caused considerable inconvenience at all the other stations on the line and there was a a jot of grumbling in consequence.

ine and there was a a lot of grumbling in consequence.

As fast as every platform got full of people, and no train appeared to carry them downtown, the mutterings became louder. Ticket-sellers and ticket-choppers were asked to refund the money paid, but of course refused.

No one vouchsafed the information that there had been an accident, nor were the usual block signs exhibited. Neither was there any report made of the accident to Police Headquarters. Passengers who should have arrived downtown at 8 o'clock did not do so until a full hour later.

downtown at 8 o'clock did not do so until a full hour later.

This was not the only collision due to the fog. There was another one at 5 o'clock last evening when two trains of i.e Sixth avenue road came into collision at one Hundred and Forty-ninth street. Nearly every pane of glass in ten cars was smashed. Two engines and three cars were derailed, and it took weral hours to clear the track. Passengers were badly frightened, but non-seriously hurt.

Naturally the "L" road officials were as ignorant as usual, but later investigation showed that one engineer had run past a block signal.

Passengers were obliged to get out and walk several blocks along the tracks to the station at One Hundred and Forty-fifth atreet. The "L" road officials will make an investigation into both accidents and "discipling" the persons responsible.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Dec 16.—Bustling activity on both sides of the House when the gavel fell this morning portended the coming storm.

The leaders were preparing for a lively skirmish over the item in the Urgency Deficiency providing for the special pension examiners. This item was to be the signal for a Republican assault on the conduct of the Pension Office.

After routine business the House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Urgency Deficiency bill. Mr. Outhwaite was in the chair.

An agreement was reached to proceed with the consideration of other items in the bill and reserve the one relating to special examiners for the Pension Office for the last. Mr. Breckinridge then took the floor and acknowledged that the bill contained appropriations amounting to $1.631.836, the only item antagonized being this appropriation of $200,000 for special exam-Mr. Cannen in reply, fired the opening gun at the administration of the Pension Office. Touching this item for special examiners, Mr. Cannon thought it was time for Congress to examine into the manner in which the Pension Office was being conducted. He referred to the clause in the President's message, declaring that every neighborhood had its fraudulent pen-sioners. He reviewed the action of the Department in cutting off thousands of pensioners, and affirmed that both the President and Commissioner of Pensions were mistaken. There had been much allegation of fraud, he said, but little of it had materialized on cross-examination by
